

THE RECORDINGS OF DON REDMAN AND HIS ORCHESTRA

An Annotated Tentative Personnel - Discography

REDMAN, Don' Donald Matthew, alto, soprano saxes / multi-instrumentalist / vocals / arranger / composer

Born: Piedmont, West Virginia, 29th July, 1900; Died: New York City, 30th November 1964

Don's brother, Lewis, led a band in Cumberland, Maryland, for many years, their father was a noted music-teacher. He began playing trumpet at the age of three, and before he was 12 could play proficiently on all wind instruments including oboe. After intensive musical studies at Storer's College, Harper's Ferry and the Chicago and Boston conservatories, he joined Billy Paige's Broadway Syncopators and went to New York with them in March 1923. Later that year began recording with Fletcher Henderson and subsequently joined the band early in 1924. With Henderson on sax and as staff arranger until June 1927. Moved to Detroit to take appointment as musical director for McKinney's Cotton Pickers, a position he held until summer 1931. During this period arranged and recorded with Louis Armstrong studio groups in Chicago. In October 1931 his first band was formed by combining a nucleus of ex-McKinney members with several musicians from Horace Henderson's Band. The band began their first long residency at Connie's Inn in 1932 and subsequently worked regularly throughout the 1930s until disbanding in January 1940. The band consolidated its considerable success by appearing on many important radio shows; they also appeared in one short film made by National in 1935. Throughout the 1930s Redman also arranged for Paul Whiteman, Ben Pollack, Isham Jones, Mat Shilkrut, etc., and also produced specially commissioned orchestrations for Bing Crosby. After his original band broke up in January 1940 he concentrated on free-lance arranging, then re-formed again in December 1940. In February 1941 he toured briefly fronting the Snookum Russell Band, then returned to New York to become staff arranger for Bobby Byrne. Returned to free-lance arranging, scoring for many name bands – providing Jimmy Dorsey with the arrangement of his big hit 'Deep Purple'. Re-formed big band for residency at The Zanzibar, New York (1943), then resumed full-time arranging for: Count Basie, Harry James, N.B.C. studio bands, etc. Formed band for European tour commencing September 1946, he remained in Europe after the band broke up and returned to the U.S.A. in August 1947. Own series on C.B.S. television in autumn 1949. From 1951 worked as musical director for vocaliste Pearl Bailey. Rarely played in public during the last few years of his life, but recorded on alto, soprano, and piano in 1958-9. Played piano at Georgia Minstrels concert in June 1962 and soprano sax for the Sissle-Blake Grass Roots concert in September 1964. During his later life worked on several extended compositions, which, so far, have not been publicly performed. (J. Chilton, Who's Who of Jazz)

Don Redman in F. Driggs, Don Redman Jazz Composer-Arranger in M. Williams, Jazz Panorama: "Around 1937 we went under the Mills banner, although they never did much for us as far as records went. We started working the Savoy quite a bit around that time, but I was getting tired of the road. The excitement, the bright lights, the star billing, and all that I'd had, and I said, give me some money now. Actually, I always liked to write, and liked that part of the business best anyhow. I wasn't even playing too much myself then, and I never did go too much for Don Redman's playing. I could play parts, pretty things, arrangements, but there were guys like Benny Carter around, and I never fooled myself thinking I could play jazz like they could."

Don Redman reminisced about his first band (Frank Driggs, Don Redman Jazz Composer-Arranger, in 'Jazz Panorama): "I barely had the band organized when Irving Mills had gotten me a recording contract with Brunswick. Mills and Horvath were set to manage the band, but they were cut out when Rockwell took over. We rehearsed for two weeks and I didn't even have my trombone section set when we cut the first sides. Red Allen had to fill in for Sidney de Paris, because he was kind of temperamental and didn't show up for the date. Leonard Davis and Shirley Clay were with the band then, and so was Bennie (sic) Morton. Fred Robinson was also in the band but he quit after a while because he wasn't getting enough solo work. I thought Bennie was the best around in those days anyway."

This then are the first recordings of the newly assembled Don Redman Orchestra, with their provisional personnel, yet. The band is full of fire and extraordinarily but smoothly swinging.

But Len Davis was not Don Redman's considered lead-trumpet player. This was Langston Curl, first trumpet with McKinney's Cotton Pickers, who at - that time - still was with the Cotton Pickers. As second trumpeter, Bill Coleman was with the band, but he cannot be distinguished at any spot on these sides as all soloistic exposure goes to Red Allen. The main soloist is Red Allen, he, yet, a substitute for Sidney de Paris. And there is great Bennie (sic!) Morton on his smooth trombone, very unconventional Ed Inge on the clarinet and fine Robert Carroll from Horace Henderson's Wilberforce Band on tenor sax. And, listen to this rhythm section!

Leonard Davis is still with the Redman band here, making the trumpet section a three-part one. Bill Coleman is not in the band anymore, and Langston Curl, former first trumpet man with McKinney's Cotton Pickers, has joined the Redman band, now and will be the lead-trumpet player for the years to come. Davis still was lead-trumpet player with the Charlie Johnson band at Smalls' Paradise for the early 1930s.

The first two recording sessions of the lately founded Don Redman band had Henry Red Allen as third trumpet player – soloist – and Leonard Davis as first – lead – trumpet in their ranks. They are thus not listed here. As Redman recounted: “I barely had the band organized when Irving Mills had gotten me a contract with Brunswick. Mills and Horvath were sent to manage the band, but they were cut out when Rockwell took over. We rehearsed for two weeks and I didn't even have my trombone section set when we cut the first sides. Fred Robinson was also in the band but he quit after a while because he wasn't getting enough solo work. I thought Bennie was the best around in those days anyway.” (Frank Driggs, Don Redman, Jazz Composer-Arranger, in M. Williams, Jazz Panorama). But this now is the Don Redman Orchestra in its classic form and we hear a distinctive and unmistakable band with an individual approach.

This title is a rather sentimental rendition of a sentimental tune, sung by Bing Crosby for one chorus, and by the Boswell Sisters for another chorus, with changing tempos each in a dramatic form.

There is a c. 12-bar solo part of a trumpet that plays a given melody in a semi-ad-lib form. This trumpeter may be Shirley Clay, but possibly de Paris as well. Because of his somewhat coated tone I would suggest this player to be Shirley Clay. And there is another hot trumpet bit of four bars starting with the last bar of Bing Crosby's vocal chorus. These trumpet notes are exceedingly hot and urgent and I would attribute them to Sidney de Paris.

All through this title an accomplished flutist is playing an extended lead part with the ensemble. I have seen Don Redman being assumed to be the flutist on this title on www.youtube.com. And Redman is known to have been a multi-instrumentalist from his early days on. In 'Jazz Panorama' he recalled: “At that time (1919 – KBR) I was playing all the instruments, especially cornet.” This remark may possibly even encompass the flute. But in 1932 Redman certainly was severely occupied with managing and directing his new band, arranging and performing, and would barely have found the needed time to prepare himself for playing the lead-part on this recording on a rather unusual – for him - instrument which is not easily played just-like-that in the quality heard. He might instead have brought Albert Socarras or Wayman Carver to handle this task.

The Redman band perfectly executes all the tricked rhythm and pace changes and handles the very uncommon arrangement (whose?) with aplomb. Personally, I admire Bob Ysaguirre's great tuba playing.

This is the Don Redman band of the day in its entirety, but under the name of Harlan Lattimore, singer and leader of the Redman band on this singular occasion. Don Redman in F. Driggs, Don Redman Jazz Composer-Arranger in M. Williams, Jazz Panorama: "We needed a singer and I was told to go around to the Rhythm Club because there were two guys there who were singing great. They turned out to be Harlan Lattimore and Orlando Robeson. I preferred Harlan because he had a deeper voice and was so handsome, and he was a fine performer. His idol was Bing Crosby and he used to sing like him. When Crosby heard him the first time, he changed his way of singing so that it would be closer to Harlan's. Claude Hopkins got Orlando and he was a big hit with him during the thirties."

Did ever anybody give a fair recognition or even praise and applause to this fantastic rhythm section? It swings like mad, propels the band and gives the sound a solid foundation, especially when Ysaguirre, this great Caribbean bassist, uses his tuba in two-beat or four-beat fashion. Talcott Reeves is a tower of strength and exactness either on banjo or guitar, and Manzie Johnson finds a well weighed use of traditional practices – press-rolls on the snare-drum – and a very modern kind of using the high-hat cymbals in the way Jo Jones later became the master of. Horace Henderson finds a slim way of adding the piano into proceedings, far from the antiquated oompah-oompah of earlier Harlem bands.

And certainly, Harlan Lattimore was a good baritone singer and the right man to get public recognition and access, but I prefer Don Redman's delivery of his "freak" songs in his high-pitched voice. This not is implicitly jazz, but it is Redman's very own and special kind of style.

And great performances of Bennie – that's what he himself gave as his first name – Morton with his extraordinary trombone sound and style, and much too few renditions by de Paris, Inge and Carroll. I have seriously tried to discriminate between de Paris and Clay in my below list.

Again, the Redman band in full power and swing. And mind Horace Henderson's arrangement of 'Hot And Anxious' with its early use of the later very famous 'In The Mood' theme – and the introduction of a trombone trio!

'Pagan Paradise' uses harmonic whole-tone devices just like Redman used in his 'Chant Of The Weed' to be a successor to this latter title, but – as Frank Driggs lets us know – without the expected success.

'Underneath The Harlem Moon' again has this very beautiful 4/4 tuba bass part with nice bass lines. The second title has one trombone leading the saxophone section in the melody chorus. Then we hear a nice clarinet obligato by Ed Inge's clarinet, followed by very probably Southerner Shirley Clay on his muted trumpet, and last but not least 8 bars of Robert Carroll's tenor sax.

In 'Doin' What I Please' we hear Don Redman's typical way of singing, accompanied by Benny Morton's trombone and later Sidney de Paris' muted trumpet. And what a wonderful rhythm section they have.

The trombone soloist of 'Nagasaki' decidedly is Claude Jones with his stupendous technique. Then its de Paris' muted trumpet, nice Horace Henderson on piano with Manzie Johnson's high-hat cymbals, ended by Redman singing the crazy words of this famous song of the early 1930s. What a band!

Great Cab Calloway – the often disregarded – and the beautiful Mills Brothers doing their "instrumental" jazz – also disregarded by Rust in not being jazz, and this all together with the inimitable Bojangles Robinson. It must have been a real thrill to attend this recording session.

This is wonderful big band work with the emphasis on singers: Don Redman singing pseudo nursery rhymes, two of the Mills Brothers singing songs from 'Blackbirds of 1928' on one side, and the same songs with the same arrangement sung by the band's vocalist Harlan Lattimore on another side, which – understandably – was rejected by the recording officials, but later unearthed and issued on CD. I – KBR – am especially fond of the greatly swinging rhythm section, especially when Ysaguirre uses the tuba in a four-to-the-bar rhythm. There is not much instrumental soloistic. Look at my "Solos ad-lib" list below. Shirley Clay's trumpet style of the 1930s unfortunately is not my special subject, and it may thus possible that I have mis-interpreted some of the recorded fill-ins as by de Paris, whereas they might have been authored by Clay. (In that case: please, pardon my error!)

Don Redman must have been the last bandleader to eliminate the brass tuba from the rhythm section to keep the string bass only. But I can easily understand his reason not to do so. The foundation of the big band with a good swinging tuba is fantastic, even more so if the tuba player is able to keep a four-four beat at a fast pace. And Bob Ysaguirre knows how to do it. I love that rhythm.

In contrast to the main part of this film, which consists entirely of comic drawings, there is a fine sequence of the Redman band in person at the start of the film playing one whole chorus of 'Chant Of The Weed' – the band's signature tune. This part is not listed in K. Stratemann's 'Negro Bands on Film' Vol. 1. The only soloistic performances on the sound-track are as shown below. But we also hear some instrumental outbursts by trumpet, trombone, alto sax and tuba, characterising the apparition of some ghosts in a coal-mine playing base-ball with a bomb with ignited fuse.

F. Hoffmann, The Henry Red Allen & J.C. Higginbotham Collection, Part 1a: "Several sources list Allen on the following (this one – KBR) session. This might be possible because Allen was lent out for Don Redman for about one week by Fletcher Henderson without own engagement after the early November week at the Howard Theater, Washington D.C. and before the opening date at Nov. 18 at the Harlem Opera House, NYC. With the exception of 14315 I miss any trademarks of Red Allen. In Jan. 1934 Red Allen played again with the Redman band at Connie's Inn and has been present on two recording sessions."

This very session does sound a bit lack-lustre. May this be caused by the presence of Mr. Chick Bullock, or – perhaps – that the band were not at their home studio?

The big question, yet, is: was Henry Red Allen at this session or not? Above are Franz Hoffmann's remarks as to this topic. I hear something else! I hear Sidney de Paris solo in the first, third (14315), and sixth titles. The only solo bars I would attend to Henry Red Allen are: the tame 12-bar muted solo and the subsequent very soft muted obligato behind Chick Bullock's vocal in 'Tired Of It All'. And these spots may actually be played by Allen with his typical repeating-the-same-note several times in his solos. This definitely sounds like Allen. And I have a feeling that the trumpet section sounds stronger in their third chair than usual, and this also at the next two sessions. This would explain Sidney de Paris taking over the first trumpet chair from Langston Curl for a time. But he still is the main trumpet soloist. There is an un-listed baritone sax in 'After Sundown'. This might possibly have been played by Don Redman. But then we hear an unfamiliar clarinetist soloing in 'My Old Man'. And he definitely sounds like the un-familiar alto soloist in 'Got The Jitters' at the session of Jan. 09, 1934. This would mean that Jerry Blake is with the Redman band now from this very session on. And Blake also doubled on baritone, and it may then be he on 'After Sundown'. But we still hear Robert Carroll on tenor sax with 8 bars in 'My Old Man'. I took the liberty to add Jerry Blake to the above personnel.

As reported above, Henry Red Allen is on two sessions in 1934, and this one seems to be the first of them. His presence obviously fills the performance with verve, and he adds eight typical and grandiose solo bars.

There still is a tenor sax assumably by Carroll, although listed by Rust as replaced.

F. Hoffmann, The Henry Red Allen & J.C. Higginbotham Collection, Part 1a: "In Jan. 1934 Red Allen played again with the Redman band at Connie's Inn and has been present on two recording sessions."

Unfortunately, Henry Allen cannot be heard soloing, but there are 8 bars of sand-paper alto sax which then has to be Jerry Blake who – according to the Rust*4,*6 seems to replace Robert Carroll for a time. According to J. Chilton, Who's Who of Jazz, Blake stayed from late 1933 until late spring 1934 in the Redman band. Does this mean that the band was without a tenor sax – and with four alto saxes? This would be hard to believe, as there certainly would have been "subs" for an ailing tenor sax player. But I assume Mr. Carroll still being in his chair. I am more inclined to assume Ed Inge was away from the band for some time. He cannot be heard soloing at this time, anyhow.

Peter Carr, 'Bob's back in town' in Storyville 91: "Regarding 'Public Weakness No.1' from 3 April 1936, the thoughts of both men (Bob Howard and Bill Dillard – KBR) were that the pianist was Joe Sullivan, clarinet Joe Marsala, and that the unknown trumpeter might well have been Henry Allen."

Storyville 92-80: "Pianist Cody Morgan feels strongly that the unknown piano player on Bob Howard's 'Public Weakness No.1' is Don Kirkpatrick as comparison with his work with Bunk well attest. Additionally, Cody notes that the Redman band (with Kirkpatrick) was in the studio that same day to cut a single side. The files name this group as 'Don Redman Small Band' and Benny Morton, another Redman band member, has already been identified on the Howards, so is here an even stronger connection? Readers with access to these sides are asked to comment."

Unfortunately, I have never found anything as to this topic anywhere later. All Rusts show Dick Stabile on alto for these sides, and I assume that Mr. Stabile had been brought by Bob Howard. Stabile was a commercial dance band leader at this time and might have been brought to the studio by Howard – but he should have remembered this later (see note above) – or Stabile was at the studio to clear some things regarding his own recording date of April 23 and had been asked to sub for Don Redman who did not want to play for another bandleader? But Mr. Cody Morgan certainly had very good ears to recognise Don Kirkpatrick on these sides. Comparing the styles of the other musicians then implicitly has to lead to the above names of musicians.

We hear a new lead trumpet player here, Reunald Jones, a young man of 26 years, who adds a bit of fire and drive to the trumpet section, and to the whole band as well. Reunald Jones was a cousin of Roy Eldridge, and he shows it. And we have a baritone-based saxophone section for the first time. The band sounds very different than before, and it would be interesting to know the arranger. Is this Don Redman again, or somebody else? I believe Don Redman playing the soprano sax at the end of ‘Moonrise On The Lowlands’. There is much less soloistic than before, and we seem to be on the way from big band jazz to big band music.

Note: (2) pno-solo only

These recordings are an excerpt from the broadcast 'The Fleischmann's Yeast Hour' (Rudy Vallee Show) of June 04, 1936. This broadcast is entirely maintained at the Library of Congress on 16" transcription acetate and runs 61:18 minutes (over time). Rudy Vallee is the host, and he also supplies the music for the show with his own orchestra 'Rudy Vallee's Connecticut Yankees'. The Fats Waller segment of the show only comprises ca. 5 minutes of music - including Mr. Vallee's announcement. (All data from Stephen Taylor, Fats Waller on the Air, The Radio Broadcasts and Discography – thanks, Mr. Taylor!)

- The whole performance starts with a long verbal introduction by Rudy Vallee, which is followed by a short 8-bar A-part of 'Honeysuckle Rose' played by a big band of un-determinable size and instrumentation.

- Fats then takes over with his "verbal" introduction into 'I've Got My Fingers Crossed', which consists of one vocal chorus with own piano accompaniment, followed by a half-chorus piano solo and the succeeding half-chorus vocal/piano with band accompaniment.

- Fats with a four-bar piano introduction into 'Honeysuckle Rose' and one whole chorus of piano solo, encompassing 8 bars of his own vocal.

- The Waller segment is concluded by a rendition of 'Christopher Columbus' with a 4-bar band introduction, a 16-bar verse sung and played by Waller, followed by a vocal chorus with band accompaniment. Then again the 16-bar verse by Fats, and an instrumental solo chorus, consisting of 16 bars clarinet solo, 8 bars solo of a tin-flute, and 8 bars of violin. This succeeded by one whole solo chorus on piano by Fats, and one whole chorus of hot solo trumpet with a chordal accompaniment by the saxophones in the middle B-part. The title is finished by Waller's 8 bars vocal cum piano and the band's final chord.

There is no documented personnel for this session and we have to listen carefully to find some detectable individual characteristics to find out who is playing.

- The clarinet solo in 'Christopher Columbus' with its harsh tonal quality and its sparse rhythmic concept reminds me of Rudy Powell who was part of Waller's recording band in the second half of 1935. But with the advent of Gene Sedic in Waller's circle Powell seems to have been out of choice (he recorded with Emmett Matthews and Teddy Wilson in 1936).

- I am unable to attach the virtuoso tin-whistle solo of eight bars to anybody, but I assume that this is the reason for encompassing Don Redman earlier as part of the assumed saxophone section. Redman had some experience in playing toy instruments on recordings as may be heard on early Fletcher Henderson sides. But would Redman have lent himself in playing just short 8 bars of tin-whistle solo when being a celebrated big band leader and recording star on his own? And this in a radio-show?

- We then have an eight-bar violin solo of medium proficiency, and the presence of any well-known violinist at this show is not documented anywhere. So, he might have been one of the band musicians.

- The trumpet solo after Waller's solo chorus then is of good but not premium quality and shows some qualities of Sidney de Paris' style as shown above earlier, but might be by anybody owning some good jazz trumpet experience and good "chops" as requested from big band trumpeters in the big business generally at the time.

Suggesting the factual personnel of the band I would think it much wiser to look at the 'Rudy Vallee's Connecticut Yankees' personnel of – certainly – professional and legitimate big band musicians at hand and in the studio, and not at an assumed personnel of any Waller big band, the more so when Waller was co-working with 'Turner's Arcadians' starring Emmett Matthews at the Apollo Theater for a week beginning on the next day, June 05, 1936. After B. Rust, ADBD Vol. 2, Rudy Vallee had a big band at his disposal enclosing 3 trumpets, 2 trombones, 4 reeds, 3 violins (!), and a 4-piece rhythm section all through the 1930s.

But still, stylistically Sidney de Paris and Rudy Powell might be faint possibilities for the identities of the soloists. But, who would have paid them union-scale, at least – and for what reason? And for some few seconds of performing, only.

ADDITION 01-11-2022: Javier Soria Laso of Madrid, Spain, provided me with the above listed personnel of Rudy Vallee's Connecticut Yankees from Rust, American Dance Bands on Record & Film 1915 – 1942, which might be a much more probable personnel than the hitherto named Fats Waller Big Band personnel as below. "This personnel were used on Vallee's recording sessions from January 6, 1936 for Victor to April 2, 1937 for the ARC group." (J. S. Laso) Thanks a lot, Javier!!!

The Redman band's development into more commercial fields of American jazz oriented dance and Swing music - after Benny Goodman's phantastic success at the Palomar Ballroom of Los Angeles and the begin of the Swing craze in 1935 - may possibly be seen as the result of his change-over of band management to the Mills Music, Inc.. With this we notice the change of the drummer, Sidney Catlett – later Big Sid – and the hiring of the elegant and smooth get-off trumpet man Harold 'Shorty' Baker. Both choices may have happened at Irving Mills' instigation, I feel. But not the worst for it. Although Manzie Johnson was a reliable and swinging drummer, Sid Catlett had no equal among jazz drummers in the second half of the 1930s. Just listen to his – for the time - very modern high-hat rhythm and his rim-shots when pushing the band and accentuating rhythmic figures. And Harold 'Shorty' Baker from St. Louis was a rising model of tasteful trumpet playing.

Now at the latest, Redman had changed over to the Mills Music, Inc., of which he complained thus: "Around 1937 we went under the Mills banner, although they never did much for us as far as records went. We started working the Savoy quite a bit around that time, but I was getting tired of the road. The excitement, the bright lights, the star billing, and all that I'd had, and I said, give me some money now.

Actually, I always liked to write, and liked that part of the business best anyhow. I wasn't even playing too much myself then, and I never did go too much for Don Redman's playing. I could play parts, pretty things, arrangements, but there were guys like Benny Carter around, and I never fooled myself thinking I could play jazz like they could" (Don Redman in F. Driggs, Don Redman Jazz Composer-Arranger in M.

Williams, Jazz Panorama).

The Variety label, for which Redman recorded at this session, indubitably was part of the Mills estate.

And this fact, I assume, is the cause for the complete change of style the band undergoes. Just like at all the 1936 ARC sessions, the band lack all their common dry humour and wit, Redman had imprinted them with his arranging skills in the years before. This here is another style of jazz big band music, depending heavily on the band's own choir singing riffs and rhythmic variations of the themes and melodies, but little on hot and swinging soloistic. If I hear it right, there is a lot of the way the Lunceford band (with Sy Oliver) handled tunes and arrangements – and choir singing. But, a pity, the Redman touch and absurd wit are gone!

But, listen to that phantastic drumming of "Big Sid" Catlett all over, ... and to the immensely swinging but un-sung bassist Bob Ysaquierre!

One and a half years later there only Edward Inge and bassist Ysaguirre of the classic Redman band still are with the band! And the Redman tinge is completely gone. There seem to be no Redman scores anymore in the band-book. And – most interestingly – the ‘Rusts’ do not list him as arranger anymore. Instead, Reunald Jones seems to have taken over this job, as in the discos. And it sounds like that. Not that it is wrong or bad. No! It just is not Don Redman anymore!

The first title bears a silly vocal by three male “maids”, and Rodriguez drags terribly, supported by Bill Beason’s bass-drum on one and three. I have attributed the baritone sax on these sides to Eddie Williams who is known as an alto player rather than tenorist and who thus would be the logical baritone saxophonist.

There are no solos by Sidney de Paris and Edward Inge anymore and it has to be asked whether these two stalwarts of the Redman band were still with them anymore. This is rather commercial big band stuff and the band has lost their special Don Redman sound of 5 years ago. A pity!

There is some reminiscence to the McKinney's Cotton Pickers days in the two last titles, yet in a much more modern way. Again, there is nothing what would remind us of Sidney de Paris' playing. Is he really still with the band anymore?

Obviously, there was no room left on the three Chronological (sic) Classics CDs dedicated to Don Redman. But when the Chronological Classics people compiled three CDs of "Complementary Tracks" (as Chronological Classics 24 – CD1, CD2, bonus CD) with titles forgotten or left-over from the c. 965 CDs they have issued, they included seven Don Redman titles from 1943 and 1946 (sessions 032 and 033 below), but not these very titles of 1940 above. They simply did not want to or forgot. This is the reason not to be able to give a valid CD number. The jazz content of the first two titles is minimal, but 'Shim-Me-Sha-Wobble', an early Spencer Williams piano composition from the ragtime era, sounds very modern, swinging and romping. The last title, 'Chant Of The Weed', Don Redman's theme song for his whole band career, is recreated with the master soloing throughout (see session 001).
