

THE PRE-CHICK WEBB RECORDINGS OF BOBBY STARK

An Annotated Tentative Personnel - Discography

STARK, Bobby, born: New York City, 6th January 1906, died: New York City, 29th December 1945.

Began on alto horn at 15, taught by Lt. Eugene Mikell Sr. at M.T. Industrial School, Bordentown, New Jersey, also studied piano and reed instruments before specialising on trumpet. First professional work subbing for June Clark at Small's (sic), New York (late 1925), then played for many bandleaders in New York including: Edgar Dowell, Leon Abbey, Duncan Mayers, Bobbie Brown, Bobby Lee, Billy Butler, and Charley Turner, also worked briefly in McKinney's Cotton Pickers. Worked with Chick Webb on and off during 1926-7. Joined Fletcher Henderson early in 1928 and remained with that band until late 1933 except for a brief spell with Elmer Snowden in early 1932. With Chick Webb from 1934 until 1939. Free-lancing, then service in U.S. Army from 14th November 1942, played in Army band in Arizona, was invalided out of service on 19th November 1943. With Garvin Bushell's Band at Tony Pastor's Club, New York, from April until July 1944, then worked at Camp Unity with Cass Carr until joining Benny Morton's Sextet at Café Society (Downtown) New York in September 1944.

STYLISTICS

STYLE

As noted by John Chilton, Who's Who Of Jazz, Bobby Stark studied piano and reed instruments in his youth tutored by the very famous and effective Lt. Eugene Mikell, teacher of a whole lot of Harlem jazz musicians. This might be the cause for Bobby Stark's very fluent and fast-fingering style – possibly derived from saxophone playing – and his large range all over the trumpet. (As for fluency his style reminds of Jabbo Smith's.) He is not so much influenced by Louis Armstrong, but features his own technically skilled and vertical style.

TONE

Tone is not sharp, but rather coated.

VIBRATO

In long sustained notes he shows a wide yet not distinct vibrato. In his fast-fingered passages vibrato is difficult to determine. Only in shortly held notes ending fast phrases he uses a short but strong final vibrato.

TIME

Stark plays with a very tense feeling for rhythm which enables him to keep a strong time, yet also play loose off-beat phrases without hastening or dragging. His time is very strong and assured.

PHRASING

Stark plays long enduring melodic phrases changing between horizontal lines and fast vertical arpeggios through the chords. His phrasing is relaxed and owns a rhapsodic charm. He phrases with great ease.

This personnel-discography is based on RUST, JAZZ AND RAGTIME RECORDS 1897 - 1942.

Personnel are taken from this source, but modified in the light of earlier or subsequent research or on the strength of my own listening, discussed with our listening group or other interested collectors.

- Documented, most certain and aurally absolutely obvious identifications are listed thus: Bobby Stark
- Probable, generally agreed, but not documented identifications are listed in italics, thus: Bobby Stark
- Not attributable identifications – although the musician in question might be an otherwise well-known person – are listed thus: unknown
- If a possible identification for an otherwise unknown musician is suggested by the author without the possibility to prove the factual evidence, it is listed thus: (Bobby Stark)

When feeling certain without a musician's documented presence, I have not refrained from altering Rust's statements without using italics. In any case, my statements are open to discussion and I would appreciate any contribution - pro or contra!

As always in my discographies on this website I have written recording sessions with their headings, dates, titles and names of musicians in italics, whenever I am convinced that the eponymous musician of this discography is not part of the accompanying group of this session! Documented names of musicians if known – in recording ledgers or on record labels – are listed in bold letters.

This discography still is - and will certainly be - a work in progress for a long time, if not eternally. Yet, on the way to a definite discography of all jazz recordings before 1942 - which certainly will never be possible - it is intended to fill some gaps that have not been treated before.

There weren't so many trumpet players in Harlem in 1925 with the brilliance, sheer instrumental power and exuberance as displayed on these sides. Only some six or seven names come to my mind. But here is a youngster unheard of before, incorrectly named as 'Robert Starr', and it seems he owns potential to develop into one the real greats of jazz trumpet further on. When listening to his instrumental technical fireworks, relations to the Dixie Stompers' 'Oh Baby' of April 1928 become apparent, and it does not seem to be exaggerated to name this promising player Bobby Stark.

John had never heard of a musician of this name and wondered if it might be a misprint for Bobby Stark and mentioned that he had a copy of 'The Needle' from 1944 which had a short piece of Stark. Shortly afterwards he sent on a Xerox with a note saying "I think this makes him prime suspect for the session, I think." His reason for saying so is that one paragraph notes that, "Bobby has recorded with Bessie and Clara Smith, with Monette Moore, Lucille Hegamin and other blues singers." 'Blues And Gospel Records' now identifies him with Bessie Brown, but it might be worth having a close listen where there are other 'unknown' trumpet players, particularly with the artists mentioned."

This session very probably did not encompass Bobby Stark on trumpet as listed in Rust, but Rex Stewart on cornet.

This certainly is one of the least known Henderson sessions. Henderson's authorship of the first title has even been denied for a long time (see Rust*3 where it is omitted). Yet, when listening to these titles it becomes obvious that Rex Stewart in his book "Boy Meets Horn" did remember quite correctly his own presence here. As always in remembrances of musicians facts have been mixed and changed, and thus Stewart certainly was wrong when attributing "Whiteman Stomp" to this very recording session (see below)! (Or did he perhaps also play on the "Whiteman Stomp" session of May 11, 1927?) W.C.Allen already assumed Stewart's presence in RR 19 as early as 1960, yet also to admit Ladnier's presence as a possibility! This did not find entrance into any discography up to now although the stylistic characteristics of the trumpet/cornet solo late in both takes of "Sorry" are clearly Stewart's. His own recollection, yet, should be proof now! But what fantastic hot solos Rex was able to deliver at this early time! His solos here, yet, are not played muted as noted by W.C.Allen in RR 19, but open. Allen's supposition certainly is caused by the sound quality of the ARC recordings which leaves much to be desired.

Rex Stewart was off and on with the Fletcher Henderson band in 1927 and 1928, requested from Horace Henderson's Wilberforce band whenever it was necessary to fill a vacant chair until Bobby Stark joining the band.

Rex Stewart, Boy Meets Horn, p. 114: "... It was on this date that Don Redman's Whiteman Stomp was produced. The other side of the record was a ballad, Dear, On A Night Like This, and there's a little story to be told. We made what we thought was a perfect take the first time but, on hearing the playback, smack in the middle of Russell's high and muted solo, just 16 bars before the end, we heard a foreign cluster of sound. This was just a problem that prevented Henderson's band (and others) from being recorded to best advantage."

Notes:

- Record Research 19-13: "... The first trumpet solo on SORRY might be Joe Smith, and a hotter muted near the end might be Ladnier or Rex Stewart."

- W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, 245: probably: Russell Smith, Joe Smith, Bobby Stark, trumpets; Benny Morton, trombone; Buster Bailey, clarinet, alto sax; Jerome Pasquall, soprano & alto saxes; Coleman Hawkins, tenor sax; Fletcher Henderson, piano; Charlie Dixon, banjo; June Cole, tuba; Kaiser Marshall, drums; Andy Razaf, vocals. "Instrumentation seems to be as above; of the trumpeters, only one is heard in solos, playing in a new fast-fingering style totally unlike anything Ladnier had played – presumably Stark, in his recorded debut."

- Rust*6: probably Russell Smith, Joe Smith, Bobby Stark, t; Benny Morton, tb; Buster Bailey, cl, as; Jerome Pasquall, ss, as; Coleman Hawkins, ts; Fletcher Henderson, p, dir; Charlie Dixon, bj; June Cole, bb; Kaiser Marshall, d; Andy Razaf, v.

‘King Porter Stomp’ shows the classic Henderson band in all its glory, with tremendous improvised solos, an unbelievable musical looseness in playing their head-arrangement parts, filling open areas with fitting ad-lib playing, and swinging like mad. This is Henderson at his best. ‘D’ Natural Blues’ just is an arrangement by Bill Challis, showing very little solistic, and thus does not reach musical heights like the first tune. The band is known to have played ‘King Porter Stomp’ in engagements much longer than the limited time allowed by the 78 recording. They have enlarged its duration as long as 45 minutes as has been told.

As will be discussed later in this work, it is difficult to discriminate the trumpet soloists. Stewart’s and Stark’s styles are rather similar in their virtuosic and fast-fingering approach. It will, yet, be my aim to distinguish one from the other, and I hope to find correct answers. A couple of notes re this similarity in earlier publications will be most helpful in this respect. First, let me cite Hendersonia, p.247: “The late Bobby Stark claimed these as his own best recordings. His work here has been mistaken for Jabbo Smith, and indeed there are many similarities in phrasing and attack; but when these were played for Jabbo by John Steiner and Bruce Davis, Jabbo said he did not make these and in fact never played with Henderson at all. Rex Stewart recalled this date, too, and swapping the lead with Stark. The trombonist sounds like Charlie Green – c.f. his work on the Bessie Smith session of March 20, 1928; Panassie agrees that it is not Jimmy Harrison here. Bailey and Hawkins can be readily recognized as soloists, and in place of the tuba, Don Pasquall plays the bass sax.” So, everything has been said here, except that it seems to be Stark all over the first title, probably Rex Stewart playing lead after Stark’s growl solo and before Green’s trombone solo in Feelin’ Good, and the trumpet break in the middle of the last chorus. In I’m Feeling Devilish it seems to be Stark again all over. If it wouldn’t have been for Stewart’s recollection as above, I would probably have denied his presence on this session at all. It should be added that Stewart’s style at this time was strongly influenced by Louis Armstrong whereas Stark displays a fast and more technical approach to his playing, using open final vibrato.

And once again the Henderson band in its glory. I would give a little fortune to hear that unissued title. Is there nobody out there who owns a test? But then 'Hop Off' once again is one of the Henderson numbers showing the band in their relaxed looseness, full of great solos and surprising bits that obviously are not written in the arrangement. Contrary to Mr. W.C. Allen I identify Bobby Stark as the first soloist, playing the introduction and the first A-strain ad-lib. Bobby Stark has absolutely different tone, phrasing and approach to soloing here (e.g. when substituting the changes of bars 2 and 11 by dimished chords – Ab dim instead of Ab) than Joe Smith who is listed by W.C. Allen for this part. Solists are easily recognized, and I do not see any reason not to identify Charlie Green as the trombone soloist. This recording has an additional plus for showing – even if faintly in the background – Kaiser Marshall's beautiful accompaniment and solistics on the high-hat. In the short Hawkins solo before the bridge – 8 bars - he uses the hand-cymbals as lately invented and distributed by the Avedis Zildjian company, and in every up-to-date drummer's use at this time. This is phantastic early big band jazz!

As W.C. Allen writes in Hendersonia, p. 248 "Positive identification is impossible because there are no solo spots." I have to add that the sound of the CD reissue is very thin as a consequence of bad quality of ARC recordings and battered originals. It is thus absolutely impossible to give a reliable statement as to the musicians present and playing. I hear a trumpet, a saxophone and a piano. There may be faint signs of a clarinet on the second title, but only sporadically, if at all, but no trombone. Considering the definite presence of Benny Carter on the band title below, the saxophone sound heard here very probably is he on alto sax. But I feel unable to say anything of the trumpeter's identity. Only, that it probably is Bobby Stark as explained in session 026 below.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p. 224: "Clarence Holiday replaced Dixon about this time (middle of November), and Benny Carter replaced Pasquall before mid November; at least. Carter can be heard on alto sax and clarinet on recordings from this period, and a bass sax is seen in front of him in a later photo of the band. Joe Smith and his brother Russell actually joined the pit band for the touring company of Lew Leslie's BLACKBIRDS show, as confirmed by pianist Louis Hooper. Joe's chair was filled by Rex Stewart, into the band for the second time; it is Rex or Bobby Stark who plays the growl trumpet solos from this period – Rex had already learned to use the plunger from Bubber Miley. Russell Smith's replacement was not secured until about January or February, but Jimmy Harrison had left Charlie Johnson to rejoin the band. Benny Morton left to join Chick Webb, and Charlie Green came back in." Bobby Stark is reported as third trumpet player with the Henderson band from at least early 1928 on. From research published after the publication of Hendersonia we know that very probably Bobby Stark was the growl soloist in the Henderson band, not Stewart. (I believe that Stewart had always been taken as growl soloist because he was an "Ellington man", and he therefore seemed to be the natural choice for the growl device. But this is at least doubtful. He did not join Ellington before 1935!) This trumpet player shows a rather coated trumpet sound and uses broken chords phrases, thus vertical phrasing and not horizontal phrasing as Stewart does. Furthermore he has no final vibrato on sustained notes. In all probability it is thus Bobby Stark playing trumpet on this recording session (nos. 025, 026, 027).

This single band title features an arranged first chorus that sounds to have been pinned down on the spot by Benny Carter. Then it is Buster Bailey in a clarinet solo chorus with a horribly out of tune clarinet, followed by a beautiful and typical chorus by Charlie Green on trombone. This is concluded by a two-bar break by Benny Carter in his inimitable style. Follows a trumpet solo chorus which features phrases known from Bobby Stark on some Dixie Stompers and other Henderson band recordings of later (jumping trill phrasings in Bubber Miley style in bars 15, 16, 17 of his solo here). Or is it Rex Stewart, yet? The tune is ended by another 16 bar strain which is played in harmony over different changes from before. Henderson's piano may be there, but cannot be heard possibly drowned by the banjo and Hawkins' bass sax. Comparing the trumpet parts heard with what I know of Rex Stewart I do believe that it is Bobby Stark here on trumpet – not Stewart – and he may thus also be the trumpet player of the Grant and Wilson sides before and later. Also, this trumpeter lacks Stewart's fire, and he seems to be rather insecure. Or is it booze again? (Bobby Stark was known as a heavy drinker! As to Stark's growl soloing, see below!)

Again there is nothing to definitely indicate Rex Stewart's playing here, and I assume that it is Bobby Stark again. Bailey and Green can easily be recognized, Henderson on piano as well, but there is a saxophone playing in the background of which I am not certain if it is Hawkins tamely on his tenor sax, or if he is still trying to get his bass sax going. W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.248: "Rex Stewart (in Down Beat, April 7, 1966) has recalled a story about Hawkins bringing a bass sax to a recording session, amid much laughter and kidding; but on that occasion, he simply could not coax a coherent solo out of the monster, so that the session (this one? KBR) was one of the few Henderson dates without a Hawkins solo." This might possibly mean that Stewart was on the session but, it might also have been hearsay to him only, thus no proof for Stewart's presence, the more so as this particular session is not dated anyhow.

Now, this is one of my favourite Henderson sessions. With all those little gems heard: Carter's great arrangements and his genial alto solos, Charlie Green's fine trombone playing, Hawkins' virile tenor solos, Marshall's beautiful and melodious cymbal playing (he must have mounted his cymbal close to the mike, you don't hear any other drum sounds than the cymbal, played with two sticks while choking it with the left hand) and the fervent trumpet solos. Yet, Bailey's playing wrong harmonies at the end of Come On, Baby should not be kept back here. The only problem is: who does play which trumpet solos? I believe that in Come On, Baby Stewart plays the lead in intro and first chorus being relieved by Stark in the chase chorus together with Carter, each one playing eight bars each. From then on it seems to be Stewart again playing lead until the end. In Easy Money we hear Stark first for 16 bars, then after the Hawkins solo it seems to be Stewart leading the ensemble, and after the clarinet solo then again Stark for an eight-bar solo. Obviously did Henderson appoint Stewart to play first parts and gave the solo portions to Bobby Stark here. Rex Stewart owns the clearer tone of both players. Charlie Green's presence is documented by Benny Carter's statement after hearing the side that it is Green. Close inspection of Green's playing characteristics supports Carter's statement.

This is a beautiful swinging affair accompanying singer Bessie Brown, with a selection of Henderson band heroes playing mainly ad-lib.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.249: "Instrumentation is as above; except for Hawkins, who takes a long solo, it is difficult to recognize the players. However, the Brunswick files contain the following quotation from an apparent publicity blurb for Brunswick 4409: "Fletcher Henderson and his Orch. accomp. hot trumpet - trombone and wailing sax. Composer assisted in making record. High and low clarinets, muted trumpet, shaking trombone - blue piano chords." This confirms this date as a Henderson session, although the reference to "composer" assisting may indicate that (Porter) Grainger played some of the piano."

The trumpet part is played very functionally and sparingly, different from Bobby Stark's multi-toned and fast-fingering style, and very much in Armstrong mode. I therefore definitely believe in Stewart's presence here. The trombone is what can be expected from Green. Hawkins is easy to identify. Harvey Boone's presence on clarinet is obviously derived from his known membership with the band at this time and period. The same applies to the banjo player - Clarence Holiday - and the tuba player - Delbert Thomas. Piano playing is very unobtrusive, but effective, and there are little snippets which I would not attribute to Porter Grainger's style as I know it. I therefore opt for Henderson. Grainger's possible presence is certainly assumed from the fact that both items are his compositions as listed on the record label.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.249: „Personnel is reconstructed from identification of soloists and his playing personnel of the period. Cootie Williams was long thought to be one of the trumpeters, playing the growl solo on the second title, but on comparison with his Ellington work, they are really not at all alike. Panassie identifies the growl soloist as Rex Stewart, and I (W.C.Allen - KBR)agree. Rex had already learned growl technique from Bubber Miley, whereas Cootie has already left Henderson to join Ellington (mid Feb. 1929), and had not yet learned the growl style. His earliest known growl solos with Ellington do not occur until September 1929. The alto sax/clarinet soloist, other than Bailey, is not Benny Carter, who had already left to form his own band; perhaps it was Harvey Boone, who had joined this early. Driggs names Claude Jones as one of the trombones, but Claude did not come east until Henderson was with GREAT DAY in Atlantic City (late June 1929). I cannot hear any drums."

This again is one of the Henderson sessions where the band sounds fat and urgent using Benny Carter's arrangements. As in session 028 it seems that Stewart plays the first trumpet parts, with Stark on second trumpet. But this would probably mean that Stark is the soloist of the growl solo on the second title. Yet, compared with other reported Stark growl solos (Henderson's The House Of David Blues et al.) this player here owns a stronger and straight-ahead yet less flexible tone than Stark and plays in an essential and not fast-fingered style, and therefore is very probably Stewart. The solo's growl style is derived from Miley's, whereas Stark's growl style is rather similar to Cootie Williams'. The trombone soloist definitely is Harrison, Bailey solos on clarinet, Hawkins on tenor sax. The only questionable solo is in the last chorus of the second title, 8 bars on alto sax which probably come from Boone, not from Bailey.

It certainly is a great pity that Kaiser Marshall is not on this session.

And another session of the Henderson band playing Benny Carter arrangements, and again the band sounds fat and urgent. All discographies say that now – after a period of Russell Smith’s absence and the attempt to install young Cootie Williams as lead trumpeter – Russell Smith is back again on his stool, but I still do hear only two trumpet players as in the former sessions, together with possibly one trombone only.

Listen to the brass section chorus in Blazin´ and the brass parts in Wang Wang Blues and keep in mind that Benny Carter in his arrangements wrote four-part harmony – and that he led and arranged for the Savoy Play Boys at exactly this time, with two trumpeters and two trombonists, which might be the cause for the instrumentation of these Henderson personnels! So, for my taste, Russell Smith’s presence is highly questionable, as is Charlie Green’s. With Bobby Stark taking the main part of trumpet soloing it seems that Stewart again plays first trumpet as he obviously did in the last sessions. A delicate instance occurs at the beginning of the trumpet solo of The Wang Wang Blues (first chorus): Bobby Stark with his rather coated tone starts his solo for one bar, is then interrupted by Rex Stewart with his clean tone in a one bar uprising phrase, and continues his solo in a lowly started, but also uprising phrase, without being interrupted again.

The trombone soloist definitely is Jimmy Harrison, and Green’s presence cannot be verified by the recorded sound.

With Buster Bailey in Europe now (from early May on), Harvey Boone probably played the first alto with the band, but the sound of the first alto here is so much that of Benny Carter, that I feel positively certain that he had been hired to lead the saxophones here, Boone playing third sax (second alto). And thus Carter might also be responsible for the two 4 bar solo alto bridges in Blazin´ (the B parts of 16 bar AABA choruses). After Berger, Berger, Patrick, Benny Carter Vol. II, p. 6, no engagements of the Savoy Play Boys – led by Carter – are documented for May 1929, so he might have been in New York at this time. W.C. Allen assumes possibly Arville Harris on second alto – and following him Rust, but I feel unable to follow as well.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p. 250: „The growl trumpet on these sides does not sound like Cootie Williams and he is not believed to be on this session either. Russell Smith had probably replaced him by this time. Personnel is reconstructed from identification of the soloists and from the regular playing personnel of the period. Panassie identified all the trumpet solos as by Bobby Stark, including the growl work; he also ascribes the alto sax solos to Don Pasquall, on the basis of the late Freddie Johnson’s statements, but Pasquall had gone back to Chicago in late 1928 and staid until 1932, so could hardly have recorded these titles.”

About 16 months after the last Fletcher Henderson recording session (032) and the “Great Day” disaster the band is back again, and in fantastic form. This – to my ears – is the beginning of “Swing”! The use of a string bass playing four-to-the-bar rhythm and the altered drumming away from accentuating the after beats, together with the smoother sound of the guitar, mark a very distinct change in conception of the music, sweeping along the whole band and – above all – the soloists. And this all supported by forward pointing arrangements of John Nesbitt and Benny Carter.

Soloists are easy to distinguish because of their individual stylistic features. Rex Stewart is heard in a whole solo chorus at the start of the first title showing his further developing horizontal improvisational style – in contrast to Bobby Stark’s vertical soloing at the start of the second tune.

As Bobby Stark seems to have been used as main trumpet soloist – he solos more often than Stewart – from now on I shall be listening the trumpet section thus: Russell Smith, Rex Stewart, Bobby Stark – tpt, not regarding Stewart playing the cornet.

To my ears this very probably is Bobby Stark on trumpet here, having a very different vibrato from Stewart’s, and a different and not so brilliant tone. Furthermore this player plays vertical and fast phrases just as Bobby Stark does in the Dixie Stompers session of April 06, 1928 (session 024). He does not show Stewart’s final open vibrato. This is my personal opinion after several listening sessions, which then was severely damaged when checking Berger, Berger, Patrick, Benny Carter, p.43! There we find what obviously is Benny Carter’s own opinion, although we do not know given in what circumstances. I reluctantly have to bow to the inevitable. But, although I have the utmost respect for Carter’s knowledge, experience and his genius – Carter is one of my utmost favourite musicians - I still maintain my doubt as to his agreement for Stewart and still stick to Stark as trumpeter inside.

The other participants obviously are as given, with the exception of the guitarist. I definitely do hear a banjo on this side, very much in the range of Clarence Holiday, who was banjoist/guitarist with the Henderson band at this time, and would then be first choice. He has the same slim and even banjo sound as Holiday. A Benny Jackson was a guitarist with the mid-Western bands of Oliver Cobb’s Rhythm Kings and Eddie Johnson’s Crackerjacks, and whose presence in New York at the time would be rather doubtful.

Now, that the Henderson band has a rather stable personnel with little changes for some months, I shall only remark observations that catch my ear.

Benny Carter is known to have switched over to the Chick Webb band in March 1931, together with Jimmy Harrison. But when listening to these sides I aurally found little indication for his presence here. He usually is easy to determine as the leading saxophone voice, but this I can find only in the last title. And he does not play any solo or any short solo spot at all, what really is remarkable. So I wonder, did Henderson cancel his solos in anger? Another possible reason might be that the band does not play Carter arrangements here, and the used arrangements do not call for alto sax solos. I also do not think that the clarinet obligato behind Claude Jones trombone melody in 'My Pretty Girl' is by Carter as listed in Hendersonia. There is nothing of Carter's easily recognizable licks and phrases there, and I therefore believe that this is one of the very few solo spots of Harvey Boone.

John Kirby plays the tuba throughout this session – rather antiquated as you might think – but his occasional four-four rhythm on the big horn together with Walter Johnson's very modern drumming makes this a perfect and beautiful kind of rhythm section! Holiday is on banjo for the whole session.

Arrangements of the last two titles are attributed to Benny Carter in the Mosaic Coleman Hawkins CD-set, but W.C. Allen in Hendersonia attributes 'Sweet And Hot' only to Carter, which in turn is attributed to Archie Bleyer somewhere else – if I only knew, where! But, to be honest, I do not hear any sign of Carter's arranging skills in the four titles here!

On 'Clarinet Marmalade' Stewart plays a typical solo with much straight-ahead steam and swing. After Benny Morton's trombone solo and the immediately following 12 bar minor strain we have a chorus arranged for three-part saxophone section led by a trumpet – obviously Bobby Stark – which makes a four-part harmonized section, a device Benny Carter used to write. Benny Morton, Jimmy Harrison's replacement, plays very assured in his own inimitable way, using lip-trills throughout his solos. He must have had a wonderful embouchure and great "chops". Russell Procope – new with the band – does not seem to feel at home when listening to his clarinet solo. He certainly had to carry a burden sitting in Benny Carter's chair. In the penultimate chorus there is a baritone playing some sort of obligato leading into a two-bar break, obviously played by Coleman Hawkins

According to Rex Stewart's own testimony he plays the "Oliver" solo on 'Sugar Foot Stomp', not muted as by Oliver and with much less off-beat, but in the way Armstrong played it in the 1925 Henderson recording. This very solo is repeated afterwards by Benny Morton on trombone.

The last two titles do not have Rex Stewart soloing. They both are arrangements by Horace Henderson – he also has taken over the piano chair – and probably show his developing talent for arranging. In 'Hot And Anxious' Horace uses the well known 'Tar Paper Stomp' motive which later became famous in Glenn Miller's 'In The Mood', while snatching the first strain of Ellington's 'Doing The Voom Voom' for his theme of 'Comin' And Going'.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p. 266: „Guitar soloist sounds same as „Benny Jackson“ on the Chocolate Dandies session, but is presumably Clarence Holiday here.“

“Fletcher Henderson's five 1931 versions of Sugar Foot Stomp. Generally Rex Stewart is considered to have taken those famous 36 bars on the five well-known versions; one each on Columbia, Brunswick and Crown, and two on Victor. However, in 1949 while discussing his activities with Fletcher Henderson, Rex remarked that he was not sure he was the soloist on all versions. He thought that while he (Rex) was in the band when all the various versions of Sugar Foot Stomp were recorded, Bobby Stark took the three 12-bar choruses on some of them. On his 1966 visit to Europe, Rex and I (Johnny Simmen – KBR) listened to Fletcher's five versions of the tune together, and he clearly identified the trumpet soloist as follows: Columbia: Rex, muted, playing close to the Oliver version. Brunswick: Bobby Stark, open. Victors: Rex, muted, and again playing close to the Oliver version. Crown: Bobby Stark, plunger. This latter came as a surprise, but Rex told me to play Fletcher's House of David Blues as a comparison, and while listening to that, I saw the light – the very special and personal use Bobby made of the plunger. Very unlike Rex. Since that memorable afternoon with Rex, I have heard the Chick Webb Sugar Foot Stomp and there is no doubt that the trumpet soloist is the same as on Fletcher's Crown version – Bobby Stark.”

This is a rather unrewarding and unattractive recording session of the Henderson band. W.C. Allen attributes the arrangements of the first and fourth titles to "possibly" Benny Carter, but I do not hear any of Carter's known arranging devices and would therefore leave the arranger as unknown.

I hear Rex Stewart solo in Star Dust in his well-known Bix Beiderbecke derived mode in the penultimate chorus.

Other than Allen I hear Stewart in the trumpet – tenor sax chase chorus in 'Tiger Rag', and not Bobby Stark. Furthermore it is definitely Claude Jones on trombone in the third strain of this title just before the first trio-part/chorus and not Benny Morton.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.267: „The identity of the vocalist remains unknown. By aural comparison, it is not Dick Robertson, George Bias, Lois Deppe, nor Orlando Roberson, nor does it sound quite the same as the likewise unidentified vocalist on the next (Melotone) session. Take 3 of 'After You've Gone' has been reported, but its existence is unconfirmed.”

Here we have the established Henderson band of the time. Soloists are identified below (not necessarily same as by W.C. Allen!). It certainly is difficult sometimes to separate Stark from Stewart or Jones from Morton! But I have tried my best, just as above! So, here we have Bobby Stark playing the “Oliver” solo in ‘Sugar Foot Stomp’, and he plays it with open horn and gives it a very different treatment (see Allen below).

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.267: “Rex Stewart told Johnny Simmen that the “Oliver” solo on ‘Sugar Foot Stomp’ was played by Bobby Stark on this Melotone version and also on the later Crown version, but by himself (Stewart) on the Victor and Columbia versions. Harry Carney (in Jazz Journal, April 1963, p.13) identified the clarinet soloist on this same Melotone ‘Sugar Foot Stomp’ as Harvey Boone, but Russell Procope, on hearing the record, identified himself and says Boone did not take clarinet solos at this time. ... Personnel was confirmed by the late Eugene Williams of Decca.”

Listen to that gorgeous rhythm section with “antiquated” banjo and tuba and “modern” drumming (there is guitar and string bass on these sides).

Bobby Stark might have had a bad day on this 29 April because you don't hear him soloing. All trumpet solos are Stewart's, although I have to confess that I have some slight doubts concerning the trumpet solo in ‘Singing The Blues’ which could tonally even be Bobby Stark, but it is not known if he ever did take over this task. In ‘Roll On, Mississippi’ (strange 40 bar chorus!) it is Rex Stewart in full flight with his high air-pressure cornet playing.

These sides are not so much convincing solistically. But we have a documented example of Rex Stewart singing here which certainly is not so easy to find anymore. As from the arrangements the session is not rewarding either, with the exception of 'The House Of David Blues' which shows essential scoring and features beautiful Bobby Stark on trumpet and the new added sounds of Edgar Sampson on violin, and beautiful Benny Morton. And mind Clarence Holiday's nice guitar fill-ins (he obviously plays a steel guitar).

Following the Victor files there are only two trumpets here. We hear both trumpeters solo, and I believe that Stewart plays the first trumpet part as he did in sessions 028, 031 and 032. But apart from that he also took most of the solos as seen below. Bobby Stark might have been in poor shape?

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.270: "Victor files show the instrumentation as above (two trumpets, one trombone), and the names have been filled in from the identified soloists. Robertson's name is on the record labels. I find it difficult to be sure whether or not there is a third trumpet present; if so, it would be either Russell Smith or possibly Mrs. Leora Henderson, who did recall filling in for someone during this period. I cannot hear two trombones at any one time, and all the solos are by Jones; Morton seems to have left the band about this time, a period of low morale and changing personnel."

Note: Oliver solo on - 33 is by Bobby Stark – plunger muted!

Stewart seems not to have convinced when singing 'You Rascal, You' on session 048 – and he certainly was very far from Armstrong's way to deliver the tune vocally. So Henderson tried out Claude Jones as vocalist here, and he is much more convincing. The trumpet section show some pitch problems which might be a sign for a different first trumpet than listed – or just for Stewart intoxicated. This might possibly be the cause for Rex Stewart not soloing on this session. This might also have been the cause for Bobby Stark to take over the famous "Oliver" solo from Stewart. And he plays it very beautifully in his own way. With Higginbotham we have one of the most exiting brass players of the classic jazz period in this band. Listen how he handles his three "Oliver" choruses in 'Sugar Foot Stomp'! Great. W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.270: "Presumably full band personnel but see above session for remarks on third trumpeter. Two trombone soloists are again present. Rex Stewart has identified Stark as soloist on this version of 'Sugar Foot Stomp'."

We hear a rather soft Rex Stewart solo on the first title, but this may also be caused by Crown's not so effective recording equipment? Stark solos in the second title. And there is no sign of a second trombonist. Whether Kirby plays string bass or tuba is very difficult to differentiate. But I believe that he plays tuba on both titles.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p. 271: „If this session was indeed recorded in October, the Henderson band had already left Connie's Inn, and Claude Jones (who is not audible on these sides) had left Henderson to join Don Redman's new band which was soon to begin playing at Connie's Inn itself. See previous sessions for remarks on trumpeters; the bass instrument is not well resolved.”

This is nice commercial Henderson, beautifully played. One solo by Rex Stewart in the first title. The rhythm section is guitar and string bass in the first title, and banjo and tuba in the second title. Great four-four tuba by John Kirby.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p. 271: „On the next two (this one and the next – KBR) Columbia record dates, I cannot positively hear a second trombone. It is apparently Rex Stewart who takes the lovely, muted “talking” style trumpet solos on ‘Singin’ The Blues’ and ‘Sugar’; he plays in similar vein on some other Henderson recordings, and on some of McKinney’s records, especially ‘Rocky Road’. At one time, I had thought it was not Rex, because of contemporary evidence that he was then playing (and recording) with McKinney’s Cotton Pickers; but on the other hand, these solos are NOT by Smith or Stark, and Stanley Dance says, “on ‘Singin’ there’s an upward flare of a kind I never heard anyone but Rex do.” Frank Driggs’ LP notes, Hugues Panassie, and Dance all agree these solos are by Rex Stewart.”

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p. 272: „See remarks on previous pages about trumpet solos. Les Reis’ name is from the Columbia files. The tune ‘Singin’ The Blues’ on this date is not the Con Conrad – J. Russell Robinson tune of that name, from 1927, which had been recorded for all time by Frankie Trumbauer’s band with Bix Beiderbecke on cornet, and the arrangement of which had been re-orchestrated, probably by Bill Challis, for Henderson’s Melotone and Victor recordings of the past months. Rather, it, and ‘It’s The Darndest Thing’, were from a Negro musical named ‘Singin’ The Blues’ which opened at the Liberty Theater, New York, on Sept. 16, 1931.

This is not one of the average Henderson sessions of 1931 in that we have a beautiful rendition of ‘Blues In My Heart’, yet not played with the ubiquitous Benny Carter arrangement, but in a different version the arranger of which is not documented. J.C. Higginbotham plays the melody with a feeling, and it is certainly Bobby Stark on trumpet behind the singer, and not Rex Stewart as given by Walter C. Allen.

The following ‘Sugar’ encompasses great violin by Edgar Sampson, a fiery and enthusiastic trumpet solo by Bobby Stark and an equally lively muted trumpet/cornet solo by Rex Stewart. In comparison ‘Business In F’ is inferior for composition and arrangement.

But listen to that great rhythm section again: Holiday and Kirby throughout on banjo and tuba and Walter Johnson with his hi-hat a finger-post to future drum styles.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p. 272: „There were two earlier tunes entitled ‘Sugar’ – one by Alexander, Mitchell and Pinkard, recorded by McKenzie and Condon’s Chicagoans among others; and one by Red Nichols in collaboration with Yellen, Ager and Crum. The tune recorded at this session is the third!”

This now is a real commercial recording session – oh yes, everything in the music business was commercial! But read the titles, there is no title of any jazz origin. And no identifiable Rex Stewart trumpet solo here.

Strangers has short solos by Hawkins and Bobby Stark – not Rex Stewart as given by Allen. And also: what Allen identifies as trombone duet is really a trombone leading the saxophone section, a device Benny Carter had already developed in his arrangement for Charlie Johnson’s ‘Mo’Lasses’ of 1929.

In ‘Take Me Away From The River’ it is the great banjo virtuoso Ikey Robinson who sings the melody. But according to his own testimony (Storyville 2002-3, p.56) he did not play, but only sang. There is little soloing – Coleman Hawkins 15 bars and Fletcher Henderson 16 bars. But there is beautiful tuba playing here by John Kirby. W.C. Allen guesses that this is a Benny Carter arrangement, and there certainly are some devices that Carter used in other tunes, e.g. the saxophone voicings in the last chorus. But as a whole I would tend to suggest another arranger.

For the third and fourth titles, please, read W.C. Allen’s comment below.

‘I Wanna Count Sheep’ brings a couple of short solos by Hawkins, Stark and Higginbotham, but the extraordinary is Kirby’s slapping string bass which dominates authoritatively the rhythm section – and swings like hell.

W.C. Allen attributes the trumpet obligato behind the first vocal chorus in ‘Poor Old Joe’ to Rex Stewart, but I believe this player to be Stark. The glockenspiel in the second chorus is by Walter Johnson whose brushes are silent whenever the glockenspiel sounds. The clarinetist behind the second vocal chorus probably is Russell Procope, whereas the clarinetist in the last chorus is another player, most probably Edgar Sampson – or perhaps even Coleman Hawkins? Here also Allen suggests Carter as arranger.

But at no instance do I hear two trombones or any sign of Sandy Williams. Is he really there?

And it is still banjo and tuba in the rhythm section, but also guitar and string bass.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.307: “Victor files give the same instrumentation as above, except that they specify string bass only. The plethora of vocalists seems strange for this period of economic hardship, but is real. “John Dickens” is not Bias, Deppe or Reis, nor Dick Robertson, present on the previous Gene Kardos session (adjacent matrices 71934-37). Ikey Robinson, Negro banjoist-singer known as “Banjo Ikey” and not to be confused with Dick Robertson, recalled making this one title with the Henderson band. The two titles by then-child-star Babe Rose Marie (reminding one of a much-later Brenda Lee) were apparently made as an afterthought, as an audition “on approval” with the band reading from stocks; without the Victor information, one would never know from listening to them that it was the Hendersonband behind her – there are NO instrumental solos or even hot accompaniments. Harlan Lattimore was then regularly singing with Don Redman’s orchestra, but did make this and a few other record dates as a guest vocalist in the Bing Crosby vein. ... Two takes were made of all six titles, but only the #1 take in each case was mastered. There seems no possibility of the existence of alternate takes from this session.”

‘Casa Loma Stomp’ is exactly the arrangement the Casa Loma Orchestra used for their signature song, only that – as must be expected – the instrumental solos are those of the Henderson musicians.

‘Blue Moments’, possibly one of the earliest arrangements of bandleader Henderson himself, was not issued on 78 originally, probably because of its very below-par trumpet solo in the second half or the title (a display of this strange phenomenon can be found below). The Columbia people, when preparing their famous LP set 'A Study In Frustration', edited this solo out, with the strange consequence that the tune did not loose exactly 16 bars (= 64 beats), but an uneven number of beats which caused a change of meter in the bridge leading into the final chorus. (Which means that there remained one bar with only three beats or one bar with five beats. Very crazy!) But we are compensated with beautiful solos by Rex Stewart and Coleman Hawkins. The complete tune – together with Leora Henderson's, the bandleader's wife's! – goofed trumpet solo is issued on later days CDs.

Don Redman's title 'How Am I Doin'?' comprises good soloing by Higginbotham, an obligato by probably Stewart behind the vocal verse, a great 2 bar augmented alto break by Edgar Sampson in the first A part of the last chorus, and a number of short solo bits by others, among which Sandy Williams' earliest solo performances in the Henderson band come a bit uneven. As for W.C. Allen there exists an unissued take –B of 'How Am I Doin'?' on test, obviously sadly unissued until now.

Oh yes, and then the very beautiful 'Good-Bye Blues' – which, by the way, is everything but a blues. Contrary to W.C. Allen I think that it is Bobby Stark taking the first trumpet solo. And what a wonderful ride-out band chorus, swinging like mad.

Holiday plays guitar and Kirby plays tuba throughout.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia, p.308: "Instrumentation is from the ARC files. Personnel is as for previous session, except that Fletcher and Leora Henderson thought she had played trumpet on some Brunswick sessions from this period, and seemed to recall 'Casa Loma Stomp' as one tilte. There is a trumpet solo on 'Blue Moments' (so bad it was deleted from the Columbia LP issue) which is not at all like any known work of Bobby Stark or Rex Stewart, who are both heard on other titles on this session. It does not sound like Russell Smith either, but although Leora said she never recorded any solos with the band, I am tentatively ascribing it to her. (John Chilton essentially agrees – a straight player, out of practice."

This is the very session notorious for the Henderson band's unreliability and unpunctuality at the time (Hendersonia, p. 279 and 'Hear Me Talkin' To Ya', p.214), but it seems that we have arrived in big band swing now. This is very modern jazz music for late 1932.

The first two titles show an array of soloists – all the big names of the Henderson aggregation. It is a pity only that they did not find time and room for both the magnificent alto saxophonists they had in their ranks. And it is a pity that this is Rex Stewart final record session with Henderson.

Rust gives an issued take -2 of 'Underneath The Harlem Moon', but Allen does not!

With Henderson replacing Rex Stewart by Henry ‘Red’ Allen of New Orleans – coming from the great Luis Russell band – the Henderson band was definitely one big step further on the way to Swing of the late 1930s. Hendersonia, p.285: “Once into the Henderson band, Red found it to his liking; he could experiment; for example on the middle-eight of ‘Yeah Man’, which Horace Henderson liked so much that he scored it for the brass section. Horace’s arrangements provided a chordal background on which Red could improvise freely.” This, however, might have been a sign on the wall for Bobby Stark to find his future place in another aggregation. Soloistic features grew sparse for him, and Henry Red Allen was the man to overwhelm any other trumpeter in the band for a time.

Sandy Williams is noted for first trombone chair in the Henderson band, and Dicky Wells then would be the hot soloist. But I do believe that it is Sandy Williams playing the trombone solo in ‘King Porter Stomp’ and not Dicky Wells as noted by W.C. Allen in Hendersonia. This trombone bears Sandy Williams’ “sandy” sound and not Dicky Wells’ extreme off-beat. To me it looks like Dicky Wells being the one trombonist present only on the last two titles - the ARC ledgers do NOT name the trombonist missing on the two first titles, and I have thus attributed the ‘King Porter Stomp’ trombone solo to Sandy Williams because of stylistic and tonal reasons! That Wells be the soloist, as read below, is definitely W.C. Allen’s opinion. Yet, I definitely feel certain about this!

That Bobby Stark and Sandy Williams still are members of the band seems a bit peculiar as they should have been fired from the band for that curious “firecracker” event of July 1933 now (Hendersonia, p. 286). All other personnel are easily recognizable. And listen to Hilton Jefferson two choruses in ‘Can You Take It?’, one of the most individual solo voices of classic jazz on his way to mastery!

These are sequences from the United Artists film ‘Emperor Jones’ of 1933 featuring the Henderson band. John Hammond, Melody Maker 07 October 1933: The Henderson band recently made several sequences for ‘Emperor Jones’, the new Paul Robeson film.” Dr. V.

Stratemann: “It is normally assumed that these sequences were cut from the final release print. On the soundtrack, however, in accompaniment to a dance act by H. Nicholas an orchestra of regular big band instrumentation is heard which could well be the Henderson aggregation. Positive identification is impossible though by aural means.” David Meeker, Jazz in the Movies, lists the film, but does not mention the Henderson band. The three excerpts are listed above. The first comprises two choruses of a fast ‘I Got Rhythm’ type tune as accompaniment to the dancer Harold Nicholas. We hear the saxophone section plus rhythm with a soling trumpeter above the band with distinct features of Henry Red Allen’s flamboyant style. The second has part of a slow-to-middle tempo standard song tune played by the whole band, lead prominently by Russell Smith. The third bit then features two incomplete very fast riff chorusses of ‘Casa Loma Stomp’ played by the entire band without soloist.

The film can be viewed in the net (You Tube) and the sequence comes after c. 16 minutes from the start. Only two musicians – a trumpet player and a saxophonist – both unidentifiable and not necessarily part of the Henderson band – can be seen in the film. It is not clearly discernible whether the band on the sound-track comprises the whole Henderson (?) band or only one trumpet and the saxophone and rhythm sections! So, with the exception of possibly Henry Red Allen, no brass player of the band might be present here and these recordings would thus – strictly speaking – not belong to a Bobby Stark discography.

These film sequencies have been issued on private CD by Henry Red Allen researcher and discographer Franz Hoffmann.

The session starts with an exceedingly novel tune and arrangement in mainly augmented chords suitably named 'Queer Notions' – and it must have sounded such to the general public. But for the musicians it certainly was a most interesting and daring demand, and only Hawkins and Allen, the most advanced musicians in the band – are the soloists. (I remember that I was very much confused when hearing this title for the first time after acquiring my beloved 'A Study In Frustration' LP set many, many years ago. I simply did not understand what was going on here!) The use of augmented chords in jazz was not entirely new to jazz musicians at this time – it certainly started in the middle 1920s, mostly used by pianists who were influenced by European composers, but it was unaccustomed in its implicit entirety of the tune.

Then we hear one of Henderson's earliest arrangements – very modest and customary – and most interesting that he has Kirby play the tuba! It mainly is a vehicle for Hawkins' rhapsodic ballad playing, an outlook on things to come. Jörg Kuhfuss – he himself a professional tuba player – supports my hearing a tuba in 'It's The Talk Of The Town'.

'Night Life' is a conventional arrangement by white arranger Will Hudson which, yet, starts with an introduction of augmented chords as heard already in 'Queer Notions' above. This title features an entire solo chorus by Bobby Stark, the last in his recorded legacy in the Henderson band.

'Nagasaki' was a hit of the day and is a showcase for Henry Red Allen, leaving only very little room for other soloists. Bobby Stark just has meagre 4 bars to shine. Instead we hear Red Allen's great trumpet playing and related singing.

This is the entire Fletcher Henderson band lent to his brother Horace who, nevertheless, was the band's main pianist at that time, playing more up-to-date than Fletcher and more to the musicians' liking. Obviously Horace kept a contract for these recordings mediated by John Hammond, but without having a working band. So, Fletcher helped out with his entire band.

'Happy Feet' has a rather conventional arrangement the author of which seems to be unknown. But the tune starts with a nice lightly swinging piano solo by Horace Henderson followed short solos by Red Allen in his very personal way as well as by Dicky Wells, also very much his own. Follows 'Rhythm Crazy' in Horace's arrangement, with an array of soloists including Bobby Stark, shortly before leaving the Henderson stable and changing over to Chick Webb. He plays a typical personal solo, very vertical and much in contrast to Henry Red Allen's horizontal approach. 'Ol' Man River' is played at a tame pace compared to other versions of this famous warhorse of 1927. Red Allen gets both a vocal chorus and a trumpet solo. Cab Calloway's tune 'Minnie The Moocher's Wedding Day' as part or chapter of the very macabre and amusing story of his heroine Minnie The Moocher gets a fair instrumental treatment, but loses all its charms of the vocal version. As in Fletcher Henderson's arrangement of 'It's The Talk Of The Town' (of session 035) I hear John Kirby on very smooth tuba in 'Ain't Cha Glad?', playing long sustained notes. This certainly is not a bowed bass violin. Again I am supported by Jörg Kuhfuss here (see session 035). And this arrangement probably is by Fletcher Henderson, too. So, I assume that he had a special liking for the old-fashioned bass instrument in slow to medium tunes. (I have a faible for this!) On the other hand I feel unable to determine whether it is an adventurous Claude Jones or a retained Dicky Wells playing the trombone solo at the beginning. And again in 'Torch Song', I hear a tuba. Rather bowed string bass here, or yet tuba? I am entangled!

Bobby Stark, has claimed to have recorded with Clara Smith, but after checking all Clara Smith's recordings with unknown trumpeters I have been unable to attribute any of the trumpet playing at Clara Smith sessions 034, 049, 056, and 066 to Bobby Stark (see Storyville 2002/3, p. 221).

BOBBY STARK

J. Chilton, Who's Who Of Jazz: STARK, 'Bobbie' Robert Victor, trumpet (Born: West 62nd Street, New York City, 6th January 1906; Died: New York City, 29th December 1945): Began on the alto horn at 15, taught by Lt. Eugene Mikell Sr. at M.T. Industrial School, Bordentown, New Jersey, also studied piano and reed instruments before specialising on trumpet. First professional work subbing for June Clark at Small's (Sugar Cane Club - KBR), New York (late 1925), then played for many bandleaders in New York including: Edgar Dowell, Leon Abbey, Duncan Mayers, Bobby Brown, Bobby Lee, Billy Butler, and Charlie Turner, also worked briefly in McKinney's Cotton Pickers. Worked with Chick Webb on and off during 1926-7. Joined Fletcher Henderson early in 1928 and remained with that band until late 1933 except for a brief spell with Elmer Snowden in early 1932. With Chick Webb from 1934 until 1939. Free-lancing, then service in U.S. Army from 14th November 1943. With Garvin Bushell's Band at Tony Pastor's Club, New York, from April until July 1944, then worked at Camp Unity with Cass Carr until joining Benny Morton's Sextet at Café Society (Downtown) New York in September 1944.

W.C. Allen, Hendersonia: BOBBY E. STARK (trumpet), b. New York, Jan. 6/06. d. New York, Dec 29/45. Played with Chick Webb's small band (1927); said also to have worked with McKinney's Cotton Pickers, but this seems unlikely; joined Fletcher Henderson Nov/27, stayed until c Mar/34 (except said to have left briefly to Elmer Snowden, early /32). With Turner's Arcadians (1933? – 34); back to Chick Webb (July /34 – May /39). A fine trumpeter, very modern for his time, and also good at the growl style. He and Sandy Williams were drinking buddies in the FH and Webb bands.

With many thanks to:

Walter C. Allen, Brian Rust, Laurie Wright, John Chilton, Johnny Parth and so many more who have contributed to find out how it all happened in the twenties! And also to Jörg Kuhfuss for his advice and support ... and contradiction.

I have tried to find out the soloists of the big bands listed in this personello-discography – which is based on Allen and Rust – on my own, and have then checked the results against the list in Allen, Hendersonia. In some instances I have accepted his opinion, in others I have listed my own conclusions.
